BUSINESS PARTNERSHIPS FOR THE GLOBAL GOALS: ADVANCES IN LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN
Companies in Latin America and the Caribbean are demonstrating strong commitment to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. An overwhelming majority of companies in the region — 80 per cent — report that they are taking action on the Agenda’s 17 Global Goals, which is the highest anywhere in the world. Latin America and the Caribbean are leading the way through engagement with key stakeholders from all sectors of society, because they know the 2030 Agenda will require partnerships and collaboration as never before.

Companies in the region are also proactively participating in critical policy dialogues and advocating for an enabling environment for responsible business. At the United Nations Global Compact, we are proud of the work of our Local Networks in the region for helping companies address common challenges on the ground and for providing support where they need it most.

Together, business, Governments, the UN, civil society, academia and Global Compact Local Networks in Latin America and the Caribbean are finding new opportunities to partner and create the world we all want by 2030.

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Paris Agreement on climate change are a response from the international community aimed at changing the current pattern of development as well as building peaceful, fairer, more supportive and inclusive societies, in which human rights, the planet and its natural resources are all protected. In pursuing the path to a new development pattern, political perspective and endeavour are needed to define a clear direction and change the conversation between the State, the market and society, among other things.

A multilateral, open and robust system is the cornerstone of a new development pattern, since proper implementation of the 2030 Agenda requires new coalitions and institutions to promote global, regional, national and local policies. The countries of Latin America and the Caribbean have also recognized the need for all sectors of society to participate in efforts to achieve the SDGs to ensure greater ownership of the 2030 Agenda, and they have taken steps in that direction.

With its Local Networks in the region, the UN Global Compact is working with ECLAC to unleash the power of responsible business engagement in the implementation of the SDGs in each of the countries and territories of Latin America and the Caribbean. It is only through the power of collaboration among all stakeholders that we will be able to achieve the SDGs in each of the territories of the region and globally, ensuring that no one is left behind.

Latin American and Caribbean country progress on the Global Goals

The Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) remains committed to the 2030 Agenda and the Global Goals. Action from Latin America and the Caribbean is critical to fostering peace, equality, climate security and financial stability globally.

Action and cooperation around the 2030 Agenda is identified as:
- Creating inter-institutional and inter-sectorial architecture at the highest level, in-country and at the regional level;
- Incorporating the Global Goals in development plans and national budgets;
- Strengthening the capacities of national statistical systems;
- Prioritizing the means of implementation (financing, technology, trade and accountability);
- Promoting policy dialogues among Governments, the private sector and citizens; and
- Fostering coordination with the United Nations system, regional organizations and development banks.

2018 Progress:

1. Trends in the regional and global economy are positive:
- In 2017, the global economy grew more than 2.9 per cent as compared to 2.4 per cent in 2016, and the Latin America and Caribbean (LAC) region saw higher economic growth.
- This positive economic outlook is expected to continue throughout 2018.

2. Social indicators are not improving:
- Between 2002 and 2014, economic growth coupled with the implementation of several social policies in the LAC region resulted in increased well-being as the number of poor people in the region declined from 233 million to 168 million and the destitute declined from 63 million to 48 million. However issues remain:
  - Increasing poverty — 2017 data shows that more than 187 million people are still living in poverty, with 62 million living in extreme poverty.
  - Increasing inequality — the progress stopped in 2015.

3. Companies have begun regional implementation:
- An increasing number of companies in the region are submitting their voluntary national reviews on sustainable development to the UN High-level Political Forum — three countries submitted in 2016, eleven countries in 2017 and eight countries in 2018.
- LAC countries have committed to establishing the 2030 Agenda as a state policy, advocating for institutional frameworks for its implementation, monitoring and reviewing implementation, and budgeting accordingly.
- Financial resources:
  - 14 countries reported mechanisms for budget allocation to different development programmes and the Global Goals.
  - Two countries considered international public financing.
  - Eight countries proposed to align private investment with public finances.
  - 11 countries outlined strategies to guide international cooperation towards national development priorities.
- South-South and triangular cooperation are considered.

Learnings from the ECLAC report
- Global, regional and national coordination are needed.
- Implementation requires trade, technology and financing.
- Technology and innovation have the potential to accelerate human progress, facilitate access to information and solve complex problems in critical areas for development.
- Achieving the Global Goals requires the mobilization of public and private resources.
- It is essential that countries of the region increase and change the structure of their tax burden, and improve international cooperation to combat tax evasion, tax avoidance and illicit financial flows.

Specific actions needed
- Strengthen intraregional trade.
- Attract foreign direct investment towards sectors beyond extractive sectors.
- Favour local and regional suppliers.
- Promote a trade facilitation agenda.
- Promote industrialization and innovation by increasing local and regional export content.
- Promote women’s economic autonomy.
- Coordinate regional fiscal and monetary policies.
- Combat tax evasion and avoidance, illicit financial flows and corruption.
- Build better global and regional governance in fiscal matters.
How Local Networks help business drive Global Goals implementation on the ground

There are five key ways in which the UN Global Compact is mobilizing business to engage systematically over the long term to contribute to the Global Goals in Latin America and the Caribbean through its Local Networks:

1. Organize local awareness-raising events: Localize the 2030 Agenda by creating local awareness and momentum around the Global Goals and the role of business.

2. Develop and disseminate tools & resources: Build the capacity of business through sharing know-how and resources to embed the Ten Principles in their business models and operations, and foster leadership through aligning strategies with the SDGs.

3. Facilitate public-private partnerships and dialogues: Facilitate engagement with Governments, UN country teams, civil society, academia and other stakeholders around public policy dialogues to:
   • contribute to the development of National Action Plans on the Global Goals
   • help plan policies to enhance public-private collaboration
   • support the development of local SDG frameworks and indicators
These partnerships will become members of the multi-stakeholder groups that UN country teams will create to support Governments in the implementation of the Global Goals.

   • Five Local Networks involved in 67 public-private partnerships in the region
   • Ten Local Networks actively engaged in public policy dialogues around the Global Goals
   • Eight Local Networks prepared voluntary national review reports to the High-Level Political Forum in New York in 2017

5. Mobilizing finance: Contribute to mobilize private financial resources to advance the Global Goals.
   • Two Local Networks working with the Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI) and corporate foundations

Further support will be delivered through the Blueprint for Business Leadership on the SDGs to guide leadership practices, and the UN Global Compact Academy to provide practical learning from world-class experts.
