Dear Mr. Secretary-General,

I am glad to announce that Cleverttech Spa wants to commit to the UN Global Compact ten principles and grant its constant contribution to their application in the fields of human rights, labour, environment and anti-corruption.

The growth faced by our company in recent years and the close relationship with multinational companies such as Procter & Gamble, Henkel and Nestle is pushing us to become the best possible suppliers on the market, active part in changes that can benefit not only our business and that of our customers, but the whole society in which we operate. Therefore, we found in the UN Global Compact a reference guideline to assimilate in our strategy and culture; Cleverttech Spa will share this decision with all the stakeholders, suppliers and customer with the hope that them too will embrace this way of thinking.

To put these words in practice Cleverttech undertakes the annual drafting of a report which will show the achieved progress in the principles' implementation. This Communication on Progress will be written yearly according to the Global Compact COP policy and it will include:

- A CEO declaration to express constant support to the Global Compact principles and renewal of our commitment to the initiative;
- A description of practical actions that the company has taken or plans to undertake to implement the ten principles in each of the four issue areas;
- Qualitative and quantitative measurements of the achieved outcomes.

Sincerely yours,

Ing. Giuseppe Reggiani
CEO, Cleverttech Spa
